

Beth Thomas's seemingly perfect life is about to take a detour. At thirty-five, she's married to her college sweetheart, has two adorable kids, and finds fulfillment teaching part time at the local university. But when a friend persuades her to go dancing on a rare night out, a chance meeting with a handsome former student changes the course of her life. Loud music, too much to drink, and the thrill of feeling young again lead to an unforgettable kiss that was never supposed to happen. Beth feels wanted again, listened to, cared for, but she knows it's wrong. She tries to put the memory behind her, but he pursues her, drawing Beth back to temptation. As she travels deeper into Dave's world, Beth struggles to choose between what her mind says is right and what she truly craves.

I was asking it at time when I had a great job and a wonderful husband and good health and fabulous friends. And yet, the question was there. Deep down inside, you know there's more to life than your career, The Bible says, "Knowing God results in every other kind of understanding." Just under the surface of our conscious minds, while embroiled in the busyness of our modern lives, we are all harboring a vague discomfort. Have you ever asked yourself, Is this all this is? My guest blogger today, Gayle Carson, noticed that people hit their 50s and often start asking.

The holidays are over; normal life is resumed. We are heading towards Blue Monday, the third Monday in January, the alleged day of the year.

Conor has it good. He has a well-paying job that he enjoys, a good family life, and lots of friends. He enjoys his hobby of playing the guitar. Yet he says.

Ultimately all of our thoughts, behaviors, feelings, and perceptions are new possibilities open up and we quickly discover that there is a lot.

Many from the 's will remember the haunting cabaret voice of Peggy Lee singing 'Is that all there is?' And some will have heard Madmen's Don Draper.

How could there be no design, no metaphysical purpose? Can it be that every life
